

VIVIEN MARCOW-SPEISER

Dean and Professor, Division Director of National, International and Collaborative Programs, Ph.D., Union Institute, M.A., Lesley University, B.A., University of Witwatersand, Johannesburg, South Africa; A.D.T.R.; Licensed Mental Health Counselor, NCC.

Her work has allowed her unparalleled access to working with groups across the United States and internationally. She has used the arts as a way of communicating across borders and across cultures and believes in the power of the arts to create the conditions for personal and social change and transformation.

Her interests are in cross-cultural conflict resolution through the arts and in the discipline of authentic movement ; as well as the use of rites of passage rituals in expressive therapy practice. Click the highlighted words to read more about her philosophy of creativity and how she came to do this work.

Vivien Marcow Speiser has directed and taught in programs across the United States and internationally and has used the arts as a way of communicating across borders and across cultures. She believes in the power of the arts to create the conditions for personal and social change and transformation. Her interests and expertise lie in the area of cross-cultural conflict resolution through the arts and she has worked extensively with groups in the Middle East and in South Africa. In addition, she is an expert in the creation and performance of rites of passage rituals and in the use of dance and performance in expressive therapy practice.